

Germany-based AI consulting firm announces its membership in Silicon Valley Europe

The German AI consulting firm Innomatik is now a member of Silicon Valley Europe, a network that serves as a catalyst for technological innovation and promotes start-up culture. The membership gives Innomatik access to a broad spectrum of industry experts and IT companies, which supports the exchange and further development of its AI-based solutions.

Bensheim, Germany, March 21, 2024 – The German AI consulting firm Innomatik announces its membership in Silicon Valley Europe.

Silicon Valley Europe, known as a catalyst for technological innovation and for the promotion of regional and international start-up culture, provides an ideal platform for the Germany-based company Innomatik to further advance its AI-based solutions. The membership allows Innomatik to benefit from an extensive network of industry experts and IT companies, which promotes the exchange of knowledge, resources and best practices.

“Our membership with Silicon Valley Europe is an important step to support more companies with our AI applications. SMEs in particular can benefit from our solutions, as they often simply do not have the resources needed to develop AI applications themselves,” says Dr. Alexandra Merkel, CTO at Innomatik.
